The holidays are different this year. When we would love to be sitting right next to our loved ones, this year we are finding new ways to express our love and celebrate. Writing personal letters to loved ones is another way to connect and share a little piece of you even if you can't be there in person.

On the next page are writing prompts to share with residents who want to write their loved ones, families who want to send letters to residents, or community members and children who want to write to residents.
