With COVID-19 still being a serious threat, the holidays are looking different this year. We all look forward to parties with our families and friends, which may not be possible this year.

In lieu of in person parties, the following page includes a variety of ideas that can be done virtually with small groups of residents, who are socially distanced and their loved ones using technology.

All activities can be carried out using a Zoom or other virtual video platform and prior communication with loved ones participating in the party.

don't cancel the party. hold it differently.
