

PhD in Human Ecology, Specialization in Life Span Human Development

Student Learning Outcomes

- Understand and apply developmental methods used in conducting empirical research on systematic behavior changes across the lifespan.
- Demonstrate skill at communicating developmental research effectively to diverse audiences both writing and speaking.
- Demonstrate an understanding of the importance of personal integrity to both the conduct of science and informed practice and intervention.